

Office of the Accountant General, Bengal.

No $\frac{E}{705}$

Dated Calcutta, the 28th January 1885.

FROM

THE ACCOUNTANT GENERAL, BENGAL,

TO

SIR,

I have the honor to draw your attention to the instructions laid down in paragraphs 3 and 4 of chapter 4, Civil Account Code, and to forward herewith _____ copies of the form of detailed Statement, and of its two accompaniments, to be carefully filled up by you and forwarded to this office immediately after the 1st of April next.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant,

E. T. ATKINSON,

Accountant General.

Annual Returns.

3. At the time of preparation of the pay-bill for March in each year, a detailed statement, in duplicate, of the permanent establishment existing on 1st April will be prepared in Form 3 and transmitted to the Accountant General direct, not later than 15th April. The return will show accurately the establishment as it exists on 1st April; and in preparing it, the following instructions should be carefully observed:—

- (a) The name, designation, and pay of every gazetted officer, clerk, or menial servant holding a permanent appointment, whether on duty or absent on leave, or deputation or under suspension, should be distinctly shown.
- 1.—But this rule does not apply to members of the District Police Force whose pay does not exceed Rs. 20 per mensem; they should be shewn in the annual statement in detail of grades only, special provision for the verification of their services being made in section 153 of the Civil Pension Code.
 - 2.—The names of menial servants attached to Survey Parties, whose service is not longer than two years, may be omitted from the annual statement; but when the name of any such servant is for the first time introduced, the original date from which his service has been continuous should be mentioned.
- (b) The date of birth, of appointment to present post, and of promotion to present pay, of each person, as well as the number and date of the Government orders creating the post, should be clearly entered in the appropriate columns of the statement; the date of birth by Christian era should be given, and if the exact date is not known, the approximate date or year should be stated.
- (c) The return should show accurately the sanctioned scale of establishment, and so will include every post, whether filled up or not; and if a post be vacant, the word vacant should be set against it in the column of "Name of Incumbent."
- (d) The names of gazetted officers should be entered first, and beneath them those of the clerks and servants, in order of sections of the establishment; there should be a separate total for each section.
- (e) The columns of minimum and maximum pay of post should be filled up only when the pay is progressive, i.e., rises from a minimum to a maximum by annual or biennial increments; and if any annual or biennial increment is given with effect from 1st April, it should be included in the return, and supported by the certificate (in Form No. 6) required by rule 8. A certificate need not in this case be sent with the April bill.
- (f) The name of any person acting in an appointment, as well as the acting allowance paid to him, should be shown in the column "Name of Incumbent," beneath the name of the absentee for whom he is officiating.

(g) If the acting incumbent holds his permanent appointment upon another establishment, the fact should be stated, and the entry should be supported by a certificate from the head of that other establishment.

(h) If any person on the establishment has attained the age of 55 years, the number and date of the orders of Government permitting his retention in the service should be quoted in a note at foot of the statement, and the period for which his retention has been authorized should also be mentioned. If no orders have been received, the number and date of the application for sanction to his retention should be noted.

(i) A detailed statement in Form 3 A should be given at foot of the original returns Form 3, showing new names of non-gazetted officers which are not found in the return of the previous year; and when these new names include those of persons who have entered Government service for the first time, a reference should be given to the bill with which their age and health certificates were furnished; and if they include the names of persons transferred from other Government appointments, the entry of such names should be supported by a certificate from the Head of the Establishment in which the incumbent holds his permanent appointment, and such appointments should be specified, as well as the dates from which the transfers have effect. Columns are also provided in Form 3 A for information required in regard to the names of non-gazetted officers which appeared in Form No. 3 of the previous year, but are now omitted; as also regarding non-gazetted officers who have been on leave other than privilege or casual, or under suspension, during the previous year. In the case of any who have been under suspension, a note is required stating whether it has been expressly declared that the period of suspension shall count as service qualifying for pension (Civil Pension Code, section 99-1).

(j) A separate detailed statement should be prepared for each permanent establishment existing on 1st April, whether paid from general revenues or from local funds; and not more than one establishment should be exhibited on a single page. When the pay of any establishment or of any individual officer is met partly from general revenues and partly from local or other funds, the whole pay should be shown in one statement, and the portion payable from each source specified in a foot-note.

When completed in accordance with the above instructions, the detailed statement should be carefully checked with the service-books, as it will be the chief authority by which hereafter pension claims will be tested.

4. This return should be accompanied, first, by an abstract, which will link together the gross numbers shown in the budget-estimate of each establishment and the nominal rolls in the book of establishment; and, secondly, by a nominal roll in triplicate, of European and East Indian employes who do not belong to a covenanted service, with the names and salaries of their appointments, and period of residence of each in India while in the service of Government, distinguishing Europeans from East Indians.

SIR,

I beg to draw your attention to a very valuable and interesting work published by me. It is an index or guide to the Manufactures and Raw Products of India, compiled by Baboo T. N. MUKHARJI, of the Revenue and Agricultural Department of the Government of India, who has just been placed on special duty in connection with the arrangement and selection of Indian product exhibits for the Colonial and Indian Exhibition to be held in London in 1886. The book is entitled "A Hand-book of Indian Products." Mr. Mukharji is the author of the "Descriptive Catalogue of Indian Products contributed to the Amsterdam Exhibition" and the present work was undertaken at the special request of the Honorable Col. Trevor, R. E., Secretary to the Government of Bengal, P. W. D., and late Vice-President of the Calcutta International Exhibition; who considered such a work very necessary for the instruction of the public with respect to the productions of India. In asking your patronage and support of the work, I would point out that its publication is most opportune at this time, when India and her productions have awakened interest all over the civilized world, not only on account of the International Exhibition lately inaugurated at Calcutta, but also owing to the rapid development of late years of the railway system, and the opening out of much of the interior; so that Indian products, beautiful when manufactured, and valuable when raw, now find their way to distant parts of the world where formerly they were either rare or entirely unknown.

The forthcoming Bombay Exhibition, as also the expected Colonial and Indian Exhibition, London, will increase rather than allay the public interest in the vast productive resources of India and her million curious, useful and interesting products, whether required in the manufactured state to adorn the palace, mansion, and cottage, or make the hall, drawing-room, and parlour more comfortable and homely, or whether wanted in the raw condition to supply labour to thousands of artisans and workmen to enable them to earn their living and exercise their skill and industry in converting the raw materials into valuable articles of commerce for the use of man.

To the student, the delitante, the zemindar and the merchant, whether abroad or in India, this work supplies all information necessary to enable them to select any especial product of India for their purpose, whether needed for study and experiment, or comfort, opulence, and refinement, or for interchange.

The "Hand-book of Indian Products" has been patronised by the Governments of India, Bombay, Madras, Bengal, North West Provinces, Chief Commissioner of British Burmah, H. H. the Nizam of Hyderabad, and several Native Chiefs of India, and it is with every assurance that it will prove most useful to you as a work of reference that it is offered for your purchase.

Asking the favour of your perusal of the annexed extracts from opinions of the public press criticising the work.

Yours faithfully,
J. PATTERSON,
Publisher.

The price of the book is Rs 2; with postage in advance 2-4; per value payable post 2-8. Apply to J. Patterson, No. 5 Wellington Square, Calcutta.

HAND-BOOK OF INDIAN PRODUCTS

(Art Manufactures and Raw Materials.)

SECTION I.—Art Manufactures.—Bengal, North Western Provinces and Oudh, Panjab, Central Provinces, Bombay, Madras, and British Burmah.

SECTION II.—Raw Products.—Minerals, Animal Products, Food Crops, Drugs, Medicines, Dyes, Fibrous Substances, and Oily Substances.

With a very full INDEX.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

Among the various literature brought out in connection with the Exhibition is "A Hand-book of Indian Products," by T. N. Mukharji, a description of which will be found among our advertisements. The book contains a mass of information, not obtainable in four times the compass anywhere else, which would make it valuable at any time. Besides an introduction of fifty pages, there is an explanatory paragraph under each item in the catalogue, and the catalogue is rendered very easy of reference by the use of four kinds of type. The INDEX is a special feature of this book. It gives the scientific English and vernacular names of each item, in their alphabetical places in one list; so that an article in the catalogue may be found by any one of its three or more names.—Indian Witness, December 8th 1883.

Baboo T. N. Mukharji, who compiled the descriptive catalogue of Indian products contributed to the Amsterdam Exhibition, has prepared a very useful Hand-book relating to Indian Art Manufactures and Raw Materials for the use of visitors to the Calcutta Exhibition. The work deals with its subject in a very practical spirit, and the information it gives will, we believe, be found to be entirely trustworthy. It is divided into two sections, the one relating to the Art manufactures of India, suitable for introduction into European markets; and the other to the raw materials produced in this country already known to commerce or suitable for development into articles of trade. The book will be found of value to a wider public than that to which it more immediately appeals. It is published at the "Star" Press.—Englishman, December 13th 1883.

Encouraged by the success of his "Rough List of Indian Art-ware," Mr. T. N. Mukharji has just brought out a Hand Book of Indian "Products," which gives in a compact form, so as to be useful to visitors at the Exhibition, information about the manufactures and raw materials of India. The book is arranged on very much the same principles as Mr. Watt's catalogue of the economic products of India, which we noticed a few days ago; but in addition to raw materials, it also treats of the art manufactures of India, arranged according to provinces. Thus at a glance we are able to find out what kind of art-manufacture is peculiar to each province, what are its chief beauties, and what is about the usual price of each article, together with any other circumstance that might be worth knowing. The cotton fabrics of Ahmedabad, Yeola, Ahmednuggur, and other places in the Bombay Presidency receive their due share of attention. The fabrics and kinkhobs of Surat and Ahmedabad are not forgotten, nor the embroidery of Sind, Hyderabad. The carved blackwood furniture and inlaid boxes, as well as the pottery of Bombay are specially mentioned. The raw products are treated under the seven following heads. I.—Minerals; II.—Animal Products; III.—Food Substances; IV.—Medicinal Products; V.—Dyeing Materials; VI.—Fibres; VII.—Oily Substances. The Hand-book meets a want likely to have been felt by visitors at the Exhibition and will be of use to the general traveller.—Bombay Gazette, December 18th 1883.

We have received a copy of Hand-book of Indian Products (Art Manufactures, and Raw Materials) drawn up by Baboo T. N. Mukharji at the request of the Honorable Colonel S. T. Trevor, R. E., Vice-President of the Calcutta International Exhibition, for the use more especially of visitors to the Exhibition. From a hasty glance at its contents, we observe it to be a very full and clear compendium of information regarding the art manufactures and raw produce of all parts of India, which are of exceptional commercial value, and are likely to be widely imported into foreign countries, if their uses once come to be generally known. The Hand-book has, however, been compiled from various scattered sources of information not generally available; and we do not think a more useful work can be found by "casual enquirers, rapid tourists, or busy merchants," who wish to make themselves familiar with the developed and undeveloped resources of India. In our opinion, this little work should be in the hands of every person who feels a real interest in the various industries of the Indian people.—Indian Mirror, December 22nd 1883.
